

Backgrounder

Tusk of a woolly mammoth currently being conserved at the Royal Saskatchewan Museum thanks to Inland Aggregates' employees.

Side view of mammoth tusk with scale bar.

Bottom view of mammoth tusk; fracturing of ivory very apparent.

Cross section of mammoth tusk; fracturing radiates from the core of the tusk in ring-like fashion.